VIOLENT METHODS.

Applicants for Work Receive Rough Treatment from Strikers.

The Railway Labor Trouble Still Lowering Over Brooklyn.

The Strikers Are Determined and Their Picket Lines Are Strong.

Matters appear to be assuming a very serious aspect in the big Brooklyn street-car tie-up. Since the recent outbreaks of violence the strikers are more reckless than ever, and it was rumored this morning that they were prepared to "do up" any men who applied to the company for work.

The central point of operations is at the main offices adjoining the stables of the Atlantic Avenue Company, at Third and Atlantic avenues.

There was a crowd of over a thousand people at this point before 8 o'clock in the morning, and up to noon it kept increasing steadily in numbers.

It stretched out along the sidewalks at the four corners for nearly a block, in every direction, while in front of the Company's office the street was patrolled by a dozen big. strapping drivers, whose duty it was to see that no " scabs " who succeeded in running the gauntlet of the outside picket lines should get up at the high steps leading to the office.

They were a determined set of men, and when a knot would gather on the sidewalk within their bailiwick they would come up and gruffly order the bystanders to move on. This was done directly under the noses of the four policemen who had been detailed to keen this big mol, in order, Officers of the Company went in and out and were received with scowls as they p ssed along the street. No violence was of-p ssed along the street. No violence was of-iered them, however.

There were three or four slugging matches on the outskirts of the crowd during the early part of the forencon. The first one was shortly after 8 o'clock, when an Italian com-ing up Third avenue, presumably after a job, was seized by the outlying pickets, and told to be off. He resisted and was started down the street with several vigorous kicks in the pear which case him numeratum enough to the street with several vigorous kicks in the rear, which gave him momentum enough to carry him out of sight in a few seconds.

A man named Conlin, who was spotted as a scab at Atlantic and Fourth avenues, was tackled by five strikers. The biggest one jumped on him and began to pummed him with all his might. He broke sway, only to fall into the clutches of another of the pickets, and after being set on by the five at once and kicked and battered all over the street he finelly broke loose and started down Fourth avenue as fast as his legs could carry him.

A few moments afterwards another suspect came up and was treated in the same persua-size manner, but he escaped by running into a neighboring doorway and hiding.

An Italian foreman, accompanied by two of his compatriots, appeared in front of the office about 10 o'clock. The three big pickets at once confronted them, and the three were muched down Third avenue, surrounded by hollow square of a dozen or more strikers. Treasurer Frost and Supt. Smith were the only officers of the Company who visited headquarters this morning. Deacon Richheadquarters this morning. Deacon Richardson, the President, is still ill at his house.

"I have not seen the President this morning," said Treasurer Frost to an Eveniso Wolld reporter, "but I can affirm that there will be no concessions made to the strikers by the Company. The present action was taken at the order of the directors, and they will support us through thick and thin. It was done to protect the stockholders, and they are with us. One of the largest stockholders of the company came to me yesterday and said he was ready to sacrifice all his dividends and his stock, too, before he would favor any treaty with the men or with the Executive Committee of the Knights of Labor, who

"What do you think of the situation?"

"It is very serious and is growing more critical every hour. That is what I told Mayor Chapin when I went to see him yesterday, and I said the same to the Superintendent of Police. Why, we are at the mercy of the mob, and the least attempt to run our cars, I am convinced, would lead to immediate bloodshed, if not murder. The death of Conductor Adams is sufficient evidence of of Conductor Adams is sufficient evidence of

Mr. Frost added that no attempt would be made to my any cars to-day, for that would mpany ought not to endanger the lives of y of its men. Very few applications were made for places to-day. One of them was made early in the morning by a member of the Salvation Army, no was promised employment when the ad was running again. He refused to give his name.

Last night another act of violence on the part of the strikers was reported at the Fitth avenue and Twenty-third street stables. A gang broke into the stables and took out one of the seven men who had been enrolled there, and after beating him severely, took him around to one of the meeting places and tried to convert him.

The other six men ran away and have not been heard from since. One of the men who was attacked by the rioters on Saturday night and was sent to the hospital was at the main office this morning, with his head ban-daged up and a beautiful black eye. He said he was ready to go to work when the Company was ted him.

It was given out, however, that orders had been issued that violence should not be resorted to by the strikers in any case, and that the latter would not be protected in any lawless acts.

If such an injunction has been issued, the strikers generally disregard it, for they have stationed their pickets at every one of the Company's stables, where big crowds were gathered all the forenoon. It was also said that the strikers had their eye on several reporters who were suspected of favoring the

Does of the picket men, when questioned by a reporter in legard to the slugging which took place early this morning near the main offices merely laughed and said:

'Oh, that was only the boys having their little fun. There haven't been many scabs around this morning, and we don't propose to encourage them to come here."

Every time there was a scrimmage the whole crowd would rush to the spot and block up the streets and sidewalks. There was no attempt on the part of the four policemen present either to keep the streets clear or to make any arrests. They stood in a group near the Company's office and hardly moved from the spot during the morting.

Arbitration Commissioner Florence F. Donovan came over to Brooklyn about 10 o'clock, and went to the St. George's Hotel, in Clark street, where he was to hold a secret conference with Commissioners Robertson and Purceil, of the State Board of Arbitration.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—The English press is divided in its opinion of Prince Bismarck's statement to the Reichstag that Germany and Great Britain agree on the Samoan question. The Times says: "Englishmen will be curious to know the exact value of Prince Bismarck's assertion that Germany is absolutely as one with England in regard to Samoa. It is difficult to believe that England has given any kind of approval to the deportation of Malietoa or to the German intervention between Tamasese and Malietoa's partisans. "

How Monarchist and Bonapartist Organs Regard the Result.

ISPECTAL CABLE TO THE EVENING WORLD. Paris, Jan. 28. - In consequence of the rictory of Gen. Boulanger yesterday, the Ministry tendered their resignations this morning, but President Carnot declined to accept them.

At a meeting of the Cabinet this morning various measures were discussed.

A majority of the ministers were in favor of dissolving the Chambers and holding a general election in April, but first modifying the electoral laws in order to prevent plebiscitary proceedings.

Some members of the Chamber of Denuties advocate strong anti-Boulangist measures by the Government. They urge that Gen. Campenon be asked to form a Cabinet. President Carnot held a conference this morning with many men prominent in political life.

It is the President's intention to calmly await events, and to accept all the responsibility of the situation. He will not abandon the Presidency until the expiration of his term of office.

The good behavior of the Boulangists has disarmed the Opposition and reassured the citizens generally.

The result of the election is acquiesced in as an honest and well-won victory. No signs of rage are shown, no sound of alarm is given.

Even the Opposition press is calm. The Republican journals, which so bitterly reviled the General and persistently predicted his defeat admit that the party has met with a reverse serious, indeed, but not so bad as to discourage the party.

The Monarchist and Bonapartist organs interpret the decision of the people each in their own way as favorable to their cause, but they agree in one thing-that it is a con demnation of the parliamentary Republic. and they presage its downfall.

Le Figuro says that at to-day's session of the Chamber of Deputies, M. Jouvencel, Radical, will question the Government as to what measures it will adopt to check the spread of Boulangerism.

Premier Floquet will reply to M. Jouvencel's interpellation at length. Several arrests were made last evening, but no serious outbreak occurred. An election was held yesterday to fill a vacancy in the Chamber of Deputies for the Department of the Cote d'Or. M. Baray, the Republican candidate, re-

The General's Election Had Been Discounted-A Little Flutter in Berlin. IN CARLE TO THE PRESS NEWS ASSOCIATION, 1

London, Jan. 28, The election of Gen. Boulanger has had no effect on the market here and very little on the Paris Bourses. Gloomy apprehensions of the consequences for the tranquility of France and the peace of Europe are not generally entertained. The fact that the bank rate was lowered last week in full anticipation of the possi-bility of Boulanger's election had a reas-suring influence which is fully borne out by the result.

Some excitement is felt in Berlin and Vienna, but not enough to seriously affect the markets. The Germans, always being prepared for any eventuality in France, had fully discounted this.

The Committee Listens to More Argument and Will Report To Morrow.

The Committee on Docks of the Board of Aldermen granted a second hearing on the matter of the proposed tunnel under the East River and Forty-second street to-day. Gen. Ray Stone, the President of the New York and Long Island Railroads which is asking for the franchise to build the tunnel, had prepared an address in favor of the project which he read.

Ex-Judge Ernest Hall, of the Twenty-third Ward, who owns a great deal of property in the annexed district, also spoke in favor of the project.

Col. B. F. Watson made a long argumen in opposition.

His idea is that Gowanus Bay is the objective point of the tunnel company instead of Montauk Point. Some great preparation for a railroad around Brooklyn to Gowanus Bay is being made by somebody. All of the traffic from the West and South-

Victim of the Strike.

A Statement from One of the Men Now Under Arrest.

Adams Was Carried to the Door by Two of the Strikers.

A Witness Who Saw the Body Propped Up Against a Fence.

The Dead Man a Relative of President John Quincy Adams.

Despite the protestations of the striking car conductors on the Atlantic Avenue Railway, that their men were instructed do no deeds of violence, and that the assaults and other happenings on Saturday were committed by outsiders, it seems that at least four of the strikers have that the assaults and other happenings on disobeyed orders and are likely to be tried for murder.

These men are indirectly, and may be directly, concerned in the death of Henry W. Adams on Saturday night.

Adams was a descendant of the famous Adams family of Massachusects. His father, Charles Adams, founded the New Haven Palladium, and was the third cousin of Presi-

Palladium, and was the third cousin of President John Quincy Adams.

The deceased was a well-educated man, and for four years past had been residing with his brother-in-law, Mr. J. W. Wheelock, at 147 South Elliot place, Brooklyn. For the past twelve months he had had no work and was on the point of negotiating for a berth on a sea-going vessel when the Deacon's advertisement for 500 Americans to powere his year caught his away Hadis.

Deacon's advertisement for 500 Americans to operate his road caught his eye. He decided to apply.

He did and was accepted, being given work at watering and feeding the horses. He had a feeling, however, that something was going to happen to him, and upon communicating his fears to his sister, Mrs. Wheelock, she said that no doubt the police would be able to protect the new men.

Adams went to work, and as he was well acquainted with the duties devolving upon him, succeeded very well.

At night he decided to remain at the stable, for his fears of being assaulted by the strikers had not yet left him. His duties were many and it was 10 o'clock before he finished them, Taking a couple of blankets with him, he bade the watchman. John Schumacher, a pleasant good night and then clambered up into the loft.

He-selected one of the bins as a resting acc and weariness soon overcame all his place and weariness soon overcame all his fears. He fell asleep.

As soon as Schumacher satisfied himself of

As soon as Schumacher satisfied himself of this fact he commenced to lay plans, the ultimate result of which was Adams's death. Schumacher was a friend of the strikers and felt that they ought to be notified that a "scab" was in the stable.

He left his post of duty, and, going outside, he softly called three of the strekers to him. They were standing in front of the stables on the corner of Ninoteenth street.

them the facts of the case and then said:
"'Go around to the rear of the stable and you will find a ladder there. Take it and you can get into the loft with it."

The three men went softly around, and, finding the ladder, were about hoisting it to the window of the loft when Schumacher appeared at the rear door.

"You'd better come in this way," he said.
The three men softly tip-toed in after him.
He showed them the way upstairs and they quietly made their way up. Collier was leadng.
This is Collier's statement of what fol lowed:

He struck a match and located the bin in which Adams was sleeping. The match burned out and the men advanced towards the bin. Collier stumbled and fell. They listened. Nothing save the regular breathing of the man in the bin could be heard. Another match was struck by Col-lier, and by the light of this the two men took hold of the blanket upon which Adams was lying and quickly lifted it up. Coller an. Stenson had upon first enter-ing the loft shoved aside the huge front door

THEY CARRIED ADAMS TO THE DOOR. Towards this they now hastened, bearing Adams between them. Adams between them. Whether he awakened or not is not known, for Collier in his statement as related above says nothing about it. At any rate, Stinson and Kearns carried the man to the door. Collier followed and again fell. DID HE FALL OR WAS HE THROWN?

Then he states that as he arose Adams had disappeared, but Stinson and Kearns were standing by the door tooking into the street. He (Collier) got up and looked also and saw the form of a man lying in the street. COLLIER DOESN'T SAY. He does not say whether Adams fell out or was thrown out. ras thrown out.

This statement was taken down by Detective Michael Powers before Collier left the

Powers declined to give up this statement

it was a serious matter and that his evidence would be given at the proper time.

DID THEY PROP THE BODY UP? He has a witness, he says, who saw three men take the body of Adams and move it eastward about one hundred and lifty feet, and then leave it propped up in a sitting position against the fence.

Who this witness was or how much more he knew he refused to state.

Upon hearing the statement of the detective, Coroner Rooney committed the men without bail to the Raymond Street Jail.

"What do you think of the case, Coroner?" asked True Evening World man.
"Well, to tell the truth, I don't think there is much in it. Do you?"
"When will the inquest be held?"

According to Detective Powers each has made a statement and every one tells a different story. But, strange to chronicle, no one will say whether he was thrown out or whether he awoke to find himse i in the hands of the men and becoming rightened jumped out.

Numberless friends of the prisoners called at the Coroner's office while they were there and tendered their encouragement and sympathy.

A Lady's Chances of Marrying

Every woman has a chance of "catching a usband," but it is conceded that young ladies etween twenty and twenty-five years of age are Powers declined to give up this statement which is the most important of all until Coroner Rooney interfered and The Evening World man was permitted to look at it.

All four of the men were arraigned before the Coroner in his office this morning. They had been taken to Justice Massey's Court. in Butler street, first by mistake, and then taken to the Coroner's office.

An afficavit was made out and signed by Detective Powers, in which the latter states that it is his belief, upon information he possesses, that the near deliberately threw Adams from the window.

He told The Evening World preparer that

GOOD NEWS FOR FISH.

An Extensively Signed Petition the Cause of the President's Action.

ISPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD. WASHINGTON, Jan. 28,-President Cleveand has commuted the sentence of James D. Fish, formerly President of the Marine National Bank of New York.

Fish was convicted in April, 1885, of misapplying the funds of that bank and sentenced June 28, 1885, to ten years' imprisonment in the State Prison at Auburn, N. Y.

The President's indorsement in this case is as follows: "This convict is sixty-nine years of age. Prior to his conviction he was trusted and respected by all who knew him and all his dealings and intercourse with his . fellow-men, both in business and social life, had been such as to secure their confidence and esteem.

" In the view I take of the application for his pardon there is no occasion to refer to the nature of his offense nor to comment upon the evidence upon which his conviction rests further than to suggest that this is a case in which the actual and wilful intents to defraud depend upon influences somewhat uncertain.

I have rarely, if ever, seen a petition for

"I have rarely, if ever, seen a petition for Executive elemency signed so numerously as the one presented in this case by citizens of great respectability and business standing. "The prisener, since his conviction, has aided the administration of the criminal law by giving valuable testimony upon the trial of another offender.

DULUTH'S $200,000 BLAZE.

The Opera-House, Post-Office and Five Stores a Total Loss.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.] CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—A special from Duluth. Minn., says: The Grand Opera-House and the Post-Office adjoining were totally destroyed by fire at an early hour this morning. The ground floor of the opera-house was occupied by five stores and the upper floors were in use for offices. Most all of their conwere in use for onnees, anost an or their constents were burned.

The opera-house was opened in the Winter of 1883, and was one of the finest in the Northwest. It was owned by Munsell & Markell, and cost $112,000; insured for

The St. Louis Hotel, directly across the street, was threatened at one time, and the guests all left the house, but the flames were revented from spreading by the able work of the fire department.

The front walls of the Opera-House fell into the street, but no one was hurt.

The total loss is estimated at $200,000.

State Senator Whiteman was removed from one of the upper floors in a dazed condition by the firemen.

It is not yet known whether or not the mail in the post-office was saved.

The origin of the fire is unknown, but is supposed to have started below the Opera-House.

A Little Tired To-Day, but Almost as Young-Looking as Miss Nellie Grant. Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris, who arrived on the Etruria, had not her things fairly unpacked this norming when an Evening World reporter called at Mrs. Gen. Grant's to see how she felt after the voyage.

Mrs. Sartoris has three children—one boy of welve, whom she left at school in England, and two younger ones, daughters, who are with with their mother on this trip to the States. Although such a matron, Nellie Sartoris looks almost as fresh and young as pretty Nellie Grant did when she lived at the White House and took her constitutional on Pennsylvania and took her constitutional on Pennsylvania avenue.

Mrs. Sartoris is in excellent health, and the voyage has made her feel even better.

Col. Fred Grant told the reporter that he feared his sister was too tired to see any one, but that he would let Mrs. Sartoris know that he wished to have a talk with her.

The maid came back, however, and said:

"Mrs. Sartoris wished me to tell you that she is oblised to The Evenna World grant the favor asked if it were not that she feels rather tried after her journey. She wished me to ask you to exense her."

The many friends of the Grant family in New York will be glad to see Mrs. Sartoris. She will spend a month or six weeks with her mother.
